Fifteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Theme/Call To Worship

Today's readings communicate the message that we are all called to live in the world with the eyes of faith and live in the world with the proper perspective: in all that we do, seek first the kingdom of heaven.

Introduction To The Word

Isaiah 55:10-11: The first reading is taken from the prophet Isaiah, who prophesied a future for Israel when the word of the Lord (the sower's seed) would take root in the hearts and minds of Israel.

Romans 8:18-23: The second reading is once again taken from Paul's Letter to the Romans. In today's reading, we hear Paul extend this notion of sin even to creation. Paul viewed both humanity and creation as fallen and corrupt. "All creation is groaning in labor pains" as it, like us, awaits redemption in Christ's second coming.

Matthew 13:1-23: In today's Gospel reading, we hear Jesus tell the crowds the parable of the sower and the seed, one of Jesus' better-known parables, a parable which sets the stage for the entire parable discourse found in the thirteenth chapter of Matthew. Through this discourse, Jesus explains to his disciples the two purposes of his parables: first, to pass along "knowledge of the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven" to them; second, to fulfill Isaiah's prophecy—the crowds will prove to not see, hear, or understand the meaning of his parables. In explaining the meaning of this parable to the disciples Jesus emphasizes the privilege of discipleship, where the message of the kingdom of heaven finds itself planted in "rich soil" and where true blessing is found.
